

Gaston Day School is an independent, coeducational day school for 500 students in grades K-12.

This posting is for a full-time Upper School Government and Politics teacher for students in grades 11-12. A competitive candidate will be well-versed in the principles and mechanisms of government and policy-making, as well as the court decisions that have shaped American society. The candidate should be experienced in instructing analytical writing. The position also requires a candidate who excels at differentiated instruction and is able to assist the struggling learner but also challenge the most academically gifted student.

A Gaston Day School government teacher is responsible for instructing students in a survey of American government and politics from the colonial era up to the present. The ideal candidate must have enthusiasm for government and politics and a passion for cultivating student knowledge and understanding. In addition to supervising students in academic classes, Upper School teachers also serve as advisors and supervise students in co-curricular activities. Gaston Day teachers demonstrate a commitment to the well-being of all Gaston Day students and to the best interests of the school as a whole.

Broad responsibilities:

- Instructs students in Government and AP Government with curriculum requirements and objectives, making effective use of technology, textbooks, and other instructional materials as appropriate.
- Establishes and actively maintains a class environment where excellence in learning is honored and respectful interaction among students is valued.
- Works with students to develop a love of learning, a sense of academic integrity, and a thoughtful work ethic.
- Employs a variety of instructional techniques and assessments that address multiple learning styles and integrate innovative learning opportunities.
- Participates as an active team member within the History Department, Upper School faculty, and the school community as a whole.
- Participates in supporting the Upper School's advisory program and modeling the Honor Code.

Personal attributes:

- Effectively communicates with students, parents, and colleagues.
- Challenges students to step outside their comfort zones.
- Models, teaches, and guides students through collaboration, inquiry, and exploration.
- Creates a safe and accepting environment.
- Fosters a passion for curiosity and learning beyond the classroom.
- Pursues current professional development opportunities to increase pedagogical and content knowledge.

Reporting:

The Upper School History Teacher will report directly to the Head of Upper School and the History Department Chair.

Experience and education requirements:

A degree in political science, history, or a related field from an accredited institution is required; an advanced degree is preferred. Three or more years of teaching in an upper school environment and experience teaching AP Government are also preferred.

Applicants must be authorized to work for any employer in the U.S. We are unable to sponsor or take over sponsorship of an employment Visa at this time.
